

Licence to publish in Science in School

Before we can consider your translation for publication, we need your acceptance of our copyright terms.

If your translation is accepted, it will be published on the Science in School website (in HTML and PDF format) and may be used in a printed form.

The Science in School editorial team retains the right to edit the translation to conform to the house style of the journal.

Copyright for translation

The article was published in Science in School under the Creative Commons Attribution non-commercial share-alike (CC-BY-NC-SA) license. This license lets others remix, adapt, and build upon the author's work non-commercially, as long as they credit the author and license their new creations under the identical terms.

Consequently, your translation shall also be published under the Creative Commons Attribution non-commercial share-alike (CC-BY-NC-SA) license.

Further information is available under: www.scienceinschool.org/copyright and <http://creativecommons.org>.

Copyright for images and additional material

Images used to illustrate articles in Science in School are not always published under the same copyright terms as the text of given article. It means that they may not be re-used by others without permission of the copyright holder.

In case there is a need to translate, for example, diagram labels, it is the responsibility of the author to obtain necessary permissions from the copyright holder.

If the author is, at the same time, the copyright owner, said permission shall be given in the author's Science in School copyright terms form.

The same principles apply to any additional material (worksheets, extension activities or additional information) attached to the article.

Agreement

Title of article

Author(s):

Title of the translation:

Name and address of the translator:

Email address of signing translator:

I confirm that I am the copyright holder of the translation*. If the translation has multiple authors, I confirm that the other translators agree to the above copyright terms and that I am signing on their behalf.

---

(Signature)

(Date)

* If your employer claims copyright on translations you make, you must get their permission. If your translation has been published substantially elsewhere, you must confirm that the other publisher allows you to republish it in Science in School.

Please return the completed form by post or mail to:

Science in School
European Molecular Biology Laboratory
Meyerhofstrasse 1
69117 Heidelberg
Germany
Email: editor@scienceinschool.org